

Gladeographix Presents:

Technical Writer

-The Problem Solver, The Organizer, The Creator

What is a Technical Writer?

Technical writers are the bridges of communication between the product manufacturers and their clients. They thoroughly study a product's usability and efficiency, then work with the product designers to make them as easy to use as possible. They also create instruction manuals and other supporting documents that communicate technical information to the customer

Fast Facts

Median Salary:

$69,850

What kinds of businesses will you be working with?

- Computer hardware design firms
- Architectural and engineering-related firms
- Technical consultation firms
- Software publishers
- Scientific research and development services

What qualities make a good Technical Writer?

- Strong communication skills
- Experience with professionals from different backgrounds
- Deep understanding of how to both understand and translate complex information
- Excellent writing and design skills

LEARN MORE ABOUT THIS CAREER AT WWW.GLADEO.ORG

Design by Rafael Joseph

